Theme

Centering Our Indigenous Language Learners

The 2022 summer theme emphasizes the importance of centering language teaching on ancestral and tribal frameworks. Through the courses, guest speakers and shared experiences, students will be empowered to develop language lessons for the home, classroom, and community classes drawing on the wellspring of their tribal cultural values. By the end of the session, students will learn, or re-learn that their own distinctive tribal culture is the foundation for their language curriculum. Tribal culture is a living curriculum.

For full course descriptions and more information, visit the AILDI site. For any remaining questions, contact us at COE-aildi@email.arizona.com.

Look out for future newsletters for more information.

AILDI is committed to continuing to safeguard individual and community health. This session for the Summer Institute is planning to be held in person and via on-line synchronous and asynchronous flex-modalities, but is subject to change due to any COVID-19 health and safety precautions.

IDIL: International Decade of Indigenous Languages

Focusing on Indigenous languages users' human rights

The United Nations General Assembly has announced the period between 2022 - 2032 as the Decade of Indigenous Languages. The purpose of this period of time is to draw attention on a global scale to the critical state of indigenous languages, and to mobilize stakeholders and resources to preserve, revitalize, and promote indigenous languages. This period offers a unique opportunity for global officials to collaborate on policy development in order to stimulate a global dialogue. For more information, visit the UNESCO site at: <https://en.unesco.org/idil2022-2032>

UPCOMING Conference

This year, join AILDI, NAMA, and the Linguistics department for the annual Symposium on American Indian Languages. This year's plenary will be held on April 15th with Regent's Professor Dr. Ofelia Zepeda. Visit the official SAIL site for more information:

LANGUAGE Directory

Won't you share the work you do for your language?
Be featured in our directory.

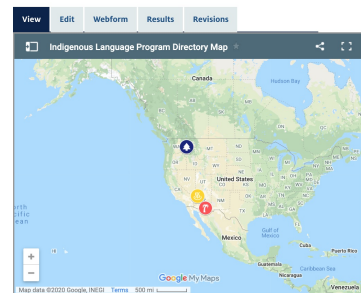

Our intention is to compile a directory map of Indigenous language departments, programs, classes, and efforts across the continent increasing support and awareness. Each entry contains information to serve as a resource for those interested in learning about your language work, learning their language, or collaborative work.

Help us all stay more connected.

SUBMIT your entry to AILDI's Indigenous Language Program Directory here.

The American Indian Language Development Institute's (AILDI) mission is to provide critical training to strengthen efforts to revitalize and promote the use of Indigenous languages across generations. This is accomplished by engaging educators, schools, Indigenous communities and policy makers nationally and internationally through outreach, transformative teaching, purposeful research and collaborative partnerships. As a result of our work, we envision that the larger society will know that language revitalization is critical to sustain and reinforce Indigenous linguistic, cultural, physical, and spiritual health and identity.
