1993: The Year of Indigenous Populations
Indigenous Languages in a Global Perspective—Resources, Research and Renewal
June 7–July 2, 1993
The University of Arizona, Tucson

Now in its 14th Year

The American Indian Language Development Institute (AILDI) features four weeks of intensive study in American Indian linguistics, bilingual-bicultural education, and culture-based curriculum development, followed by local projects implemented in participants’ home schools and communities.

Offering graduate or undergraduate credit hours, the AILD offers courses in linguistics, tribal elders, bilingual/ESL specialists, teachers, aides, parents and school administrators in an integrated learning experience. Courses emphasize holistic, interactive teaching strategies that utilize Indian students’ prior knowledge, promote self-esteem, and develop literacy, biliteracy, and critical thinking.

All courses lead toward regular degree programs and bilingual and ESL endorsements.
